NCPDP Foundation Announces GoodRx as its Access to Care Founders Gift Donor to Advance Research Priorities

SCOTTSDALE, AZ, April 21, 2022 – The NCPDP Foundation today announces GoodRx as its Access to Care Founders gift donor. GoodRx's donation of $100,000 will support future research projects over the next two years that demonstrate and measure one or more existing or future NCPDP standards that align with the Foundation's strategic initiative to Expand Patient Access to Care. Scriptcycle's Chief Executive Officer, Frannie McGowan, will serve as the NCPDP Foundation's National Advisory Council (NAC) Chair for Patient Access to Care.

The NCPDP Foundation's newly established NAC will focus its fundraising efforts in support of three research priorities: enhance patient safety; expand access to care; and expand the role and value of pharmacists. The NAC is composed of volunteer leaders who are committed to advancing NCPDP and its national initiatives. Members represent the highest levels of industry, philanthropy and non-governmental organizations and serve in an advisory rather than fiduciary role.

"All too often, sticker shock causes patients to abandon needed prescriptions, as numerous studies have shown that the cost of prescriptions is a key cause of people failing to begin or continue prescription drug therapies. It is great to work with an industry leader such as GoodRx to advance patient access to care through NCPDP's standards," said J.W. Hill, MBAHCM, CNED, Executive Director, NCPDP Foundation.

Lee Ann Stember, NCPDP's President & CEO and NCPDP Foundation Board Member, stated, "The enrollment process, benefit coverage decisions, safety and education components required before specialty medications can be dispensed are time consuming. The required information exchange typically occurs through phone and fax methods, which exacerbates delays. Although some patients can obtain specialty medications in a week or so, some report waiting months. While patients wait -- or give up -- their disease progresses and their health deteriorates, sometimes seriously. NCPDP and the NCPDP Foundation, with the support of GoodRx, is committed to breaking down these barriers using NCPDP Standards to improve patient access."

"We are proud to support the NCPDP Foundation and the work they do to help patients access lifesaving medications," said Frannie McGowan, CEO of Scriptcycle (a wholly owned subsidiary of GoodRx). "We believe the research the Foundation supports will help providers and patients find clinically appropriate, lower cost medications. Finding new ways to make this information readily available will allow patients to get on, and stay on, prescribed therapies more efficiently. I look forward to being a part of the NAC and helping drive this important work forward.”
